WHEELING, MARCH 8, 1893.

Mr. Watts' Little Scheme.

Mr. C. C. Watts is a very shrewd campaigner. Just now he is making a campaign for appointment as United States district attorney for West Virginia. To show that some other Democrat should be appointed to that place the INTELLIGENCER dug out his impertinent telegram to President Harrison after the November election.

This telegram was the first move of Mr. Watts in his campaign and was written by him in the hope that it would make plain sailing for him with President Cleveland. Believing that President Cleveland respects the office he holds and would not approve of such a message as Mr. Watts sent to President Harrison, the INTELLIGENCER thought it advisable to give new life and currency to that remarkable production of Mr. Watts' genius.

Mr. Watts must think that his telegram is hurting him, for he has induced the Democratic members of the legislature to join in a protest against Republican influences being considered in the matter of the appointment. Mr. Elkins is jumped on as the Republican in particular who wants President Cleveland to regard the deencies of the occasion by appointing someone else.

If Mr. Elkins is endeavoring to do President Cleveland this service his action is to be commended by all good citizens. Mr. Watts seems to regard the outlook for him as bad, or he would not resort to this little scheme of wire-pulling the legislature in his interest.

Those British tars in Honolulu would do well to remember that Britannia never has ruled the wave when she ran against Uncle Sam. This is history.

Mayor and Chief of Police.

The mayor of Pittsburgh asks the council to remove the chief of police for failing to perform his duty. The mayor of every city should have the power to remove the whole police force. He is supposed to be the executive head of the municipal government and this he should be in fact. The mayor should be given the full power and held to a strict responsibility.

The Wheeling method, by which the chief of police is chosen by the people, could not well be worse. Beginning with the manipulation of the primaries each candidate seeks to build up a personal machine which, in the event of his election, he carries with him into the administration of the office; and he and his machine are practically independent of the mayor. The method is objectionable and its results are equally so.

Mr. Cleveland and his cabinet, having got through with their swearing, will now settle down to business.

A Lesson From Pennsylvania.

Dempsey and Beatty, convicted of poisoning at Homestead, have been landed in the penitentiary to begin the long confinement of seven years. It is a pity that those men were so far misled by their interest in the success of the memorable strike, so swiftly followed by results so deplorable.

Their fate should be a reminder to all too zealous men that it does not pay to carrying their contention beyond the limits of the law. Communities may for a time suffer gross violations of law, but in the end, which may come quickly, as in this case, the triumph of the law comes with certainty and terrible force.

This is because society must protect itself or dissolve and give back to every man his natural right to defend himself with what weapons he can command. It is settled now that the poison argument in the prosecution of a strike is not to be tolerated in this country.

The British press continues to be immensely tickled over President Cleveland's tariff utterances. They could not have pleased themselves better, those British free traders, if they had spoken themselves.

Savagery Triumphant.

The outrage reported from Cherokee county, Alabama, is almost as revolting as the recent incident in Paris, Texas, where a man was tortured and burned to death. The inhumanity of forcing the wives and children of the victims to witness their writhings has never been exceeded by the savagery of savages. All this happens in the United States of America. What will the world think of us?

Mr. Elkins has been one of the useful men in this legislature. No misrepresentation by the Register or any other newspaper or person can take from the merit of his record. All the same yesterday's row in the house was not worth the time it took.

How long must Hawaii wait before we assure her that we know a good thing when we see it?

Soured on the Executive Session. The senate had hardly assembled on Monday before it went into executive session. Among the hundreds of people who were turned out were many who had come long distances to see a session of the senate and were to leave in the evening. They take home with them a very strong impression of the executive session, a curious relic for which there is not the least justification.

The people read next day in the newspapers what was done in executive session—why deny them the privilege of seeing and hearing? Newspaper enterprise has long since done away with the secrecy of the executive session. It is time to abolish the thing altogether.

FOURTEENTH street, from Main to Market, looks as though it might be the accumulated drops of the last flood. Is it being nursed in this condition for a World's Fair exhibit?

"How Are You, Grover?"

Some of President Cleveland's old Buffalo acquaintances who called on him while he was giving a public reception in the white house addressed him with "How are you, Grover?"

Nobody is well enough acquainted with the man who fills the presidency to address him with this familiarity in public. A decent regard for the office demands that he be addressed as Mr. President.

Some people don't know, others think it smart to be familiar with public men of all grades, the higher the grade the more they enjoy the familiarity.

The World's Fair should be opened by the President, and it is hoped that he will accept the invitation.

A Good Beginning.

So long as the Republican club of Ohio county furnishes entertainment and instruction for its members and their friends it may safely look for well attended meetings, such as that of last night. It is the intention of the club to keep up this gait. Every Republican in Ohio county should encourage the club by belonging to it. It is the most practical thing in the club way that this vicinity has seen.

The Chicago Tribune accomplished a brilliant stroke of enterprise when it delivered in Washington in time for early breakfast its complete Sunday edition full of the inauguration proceedings and everything else that was going on in the world. It takes nerve and brains to wake up a city a thousand miles away with such a thunder-clap as that.

DOLLARS to doughnuts that President Cleveland would feel easier if the Republicans were in control at the other end of the avenue. He would then be in no dread of being run over by his own party or of seeing his party wrecked by a superabundance of power. Mr. Cleveland is afraid of his party and his party is afraid of him.

GENERAL GEORGE B. McCLELLAN's daughter has married a Frenchman. Fortunately he is not encumbered with a title. Now that Miss McClellan has set the pace of a new departure it may be that other American girls of foreign leaning will see in her example something worthy of imitation.

The declaration is made, on what is assumed to be authority, that several members of the new cabinet have highly resolved to live on their salary. This being principally their own business, it can hardly be made a national question on which the next election may turn.

The Democratic New York Sun is good enough to say that "Benjamin Harrison is a man of brains and strong will, and it is not his destiny to be classed in history with the lightweight Presidents." This is the pure milk of the word.

Observe that Judge Gresham did not let go the comfortable judgeship until he had been confirmed as secretary of state. He seems to have been troubled with doubts which nobody else entertained.

If the gossips know what they are gossiping about Mr. McLeod, of Reading railroad fame, is near the end of his string. Just now it does not seem to be a strong string that he is holding on by.

GEORGE WASHINGTON went into the presidential office April 30. This should console anybody who is looking for a precedent to support the Sherman constitutional amendment.

SECRETARY GRESHAM and the office-seeking Democrats will find it a little awkward to exchange congratulations.

To-day this legislature will dissolve as a dream and the memory thereof will be as a nightmare.

BREAKFAST BUDGET.

The most wonderful telephonic feat will be accomplished at the opening of the World's Fair. By a special arrangement of long distance transmitters President Cleveland's speech opening the exposition will be heard by an audience in New York city, nearly one thousand miles away. The entire musical programme will also be listened to at this great distance.

The town of Adrian, Mich., boasts of a female contortionist who can balance a broom on her chin and bend over backward until her head touches the floor. The Detroit Free Press states that nothing at all is said about her ability to hold one end of the hands in her hand with the other resting on the floor, and do a little act that is popular the country over.

A mound situated near Fort Gaines, Ga., is reputed to be the largest in this country, and is believed to be made of eddy the work of the mound builders of olden times. Its base is said to cover nearly two and a half acres, and, running up at an angle of about 45 degrees, it protrudes to a height of about 100 feet.

Mr. W. S. Harwell, of Ocala, Florida, went fishing one day recently, and caught enough fish to last him for some time to come. He was fishing off a wharf with a hook and line, when he caught—a barrel of speckled perch.

A young man was arrested and fined the other evening at Atchison, Kansas, for whistling between the acts in a theatre. If that rule was practiced in this city the police station would be filled in short order.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Rule or Ruin.

Cincinnati Times-Star. When the enterprising and public-spirited citizens of Chicago subscribed more money than the people of any other city ever did in order to give a world's fair that should do honor to America as no other exposition did, they counted upon the hearty support of American laboring men in that great undertaking, especially since it would afford profitable employment to hundreds of thousands of laborers who might otherwise remain idle. Strangely enough, the management of the Columbian Exposition has had to face a continuous succession of labor strikes from the first shovelful of dirt to the driving of the last nail, and now a general and simultaneous strike of all the labor unions is threatened such as will prevent the opening of the fair at the time appointed. To these strikers it appears to be of more consequence that a non-union man be barred from work than that the nation shall make an exhibition of its industries.

Will They Dare?

Washington Post (Ind.). There are many Democrats who still adhere to old partisan ideas and believe that they are entitled to first place, other things being equal, in an administration of their own creation. They are more or less disappointed in the composition of the cabinet departments. We shall soon see. There is no mistaking the President's position. Will the cabinet dare, or can it consist, only or largely, take any other course?

Please All Nations.

Pittsburgh Commercial-Gazette (Rep.). One of the most striking proofs of the vagueness of Mr. Cleveland's inaugural is the readiness with which various parts are approved by men of most divergent views.

STATE NOTES.

An Editor's Regrets.

South Branch Gazette. We acknowledge the receipt of a handsome invitation to be present at the inaugural ceremonies and reception of Gov. Wm. A. MacCorkle.

We would like ever so well to be present to shake Bill's paw, and have a chat with "Daniel Boone," and perhaps receive an introduction to Statesman Joe Chilton, and perchance take a social glass with Ike Johnson. These joys alas can never be ours. We are located forty miles from a railroad and the mud is knee high, the devil is indisposed and we've a lot of job work on hand, so we send our regrets.

Save Your Tax Bills.

Martinsburg Herald. The West Virginia legislature fooled too much of its time away on partisan measures, and the call of an extra session by the governor places the responsibility of the unnecessary expense upon the Democratic party, whose representatives refused to reduce taxation on account of extravagant expenditures. Increased valuations, re-assessments, higher taxes, more expenditures. Taxpayers, please save your tax bills for comparison as the years of Democratic rule roll on.

A Mean Girl.

Clarksburg News. There is a mean girl in Clarksburg, and the story of her meanness has just leaked out. She bet a kiss against a dollar with a nice young clerk in this town that Harrison would be elected. The stakeholder of the dollar was a homely old maid, and when the young man claimed the kiss from the pretty young girl she coolly informed him that the stakeholder held both bets and would cheerfully deliver them on demand.

BABY ONE SOLID SORE.

Tried Everything Without Relief—No Rest Night or Day—Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

My baby, when two months old, had a break-out with what the doctors called eczema. Her head, arms, feet and hands were each one solid sore. I tried everything, but neither the doctors nor anything else did her any good. We could get no rest day or night with her. In my extremity I tried the Cuticura Remedies, but I confess I had no faith in them, for I had never seen them tried. To my great surprise, in one week's time after beginning to use the CUTICURA Remedies the sores were well, but I continued to use the REMEDIES for a little while, and now she is as fat a baby as you would like to see, and as sound as a dollar.

I believe my baby would have died if I had not tried CUTICURA REMEDIES. I write this to every mother with a baby like mine can feel confident that there is a medicine that will cure the worst eczema, and that medicine is the CUTICURA Remedies.

ANOTHER LIE NAILED.
The Pennsylvania Troops' Trip to Washington Was Not at State Expense.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 7.—An erroneous impression has gone out that the recent trip of the national guard of Pennsylvania to Washington cost the state a large sum of money. The facts are that the state did not contribute one cent towards the expenses of the visit to the national capital. In conversation with the Associated Press correspondent Governor Pattison said: "The trip did not cost the state of Pennsylvania one dollar." The Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads furnished the transportation of the entire division of 7,400 men free, quarters were given the men in the war and navy departments by the United States government and the men supplied their own subsistence.

The latter statement also refutes the reports that the members of the guard did not want to attend the inauguration.
